Give Me Breakfast, or Give Me Lunch

Applewood-Smoked Country Ham, House-Made Pulled BBQ Pork, Swiss Cheese, Fried Egg, Pickles & Creole Mustard on Ciabatta—dusted with Cajun Spice all of which can be found on one mouthwatering sandwich: the “Cuban Huevos Sandwich.” This is only my favorite one of the sixty-four options that Miss Shirley's Café offers on their exquisite menu. After a week filled with classes, homework, and tests, nothing is better than taking the short ten-minute walk up the hill (if it's winter take the $4 Uber) on a Saturday or Sunday morning to Miss Shirley's Café in Roland Park. Once you arrive, make sure to put your name down because there is always a wait, but you will soon find out why you are forced to wait. As you wait, you will take no time at all to find yourself surrounded by all the remarkable aromas. Do not be alarmed if your mouth starts to water, if your senses can't handle it. Once you are called to the table, get ready for the blessing your taste buds are about to receive.

Ambiance of Miss Shirley's Cafe

Miss Shirley's Café is open during the perfect times, to grab a delicious meal, even if you sleep late. Another great factor of Miss Shirley's Café is the space. Chris Manahan, a fellow first-year of mine, mentioned, “You do not even realize how big the restaurant truly is. From the outside it looks rather small, but once you enter you're exposed to how large it really is.” Chris is not wrong either; Miss Shirley's Café is filled with 112 tables for a max capacity of 516 guests. Even though Miss Shirley's has massive space, the atmosphere makes you feel right at home with staff that have house-warming smiles and friendly head chefs. The soothing rose walls, covered with pictures displaying Oriole games, peaceful parks, and all other Baltimore things you soon will learn to love, allows you to relax right when you enter the restaurant. The ambiance of the place really allows you to unwind and enjoy an amazing meal at the same time.

The Unspoken Rule

My friends and I look forward to our weekend visits to Miss Shirley's Café. It is a great place to go with friends on a weekend. You may find yourself too busy some days to not really be able to see your friends and a bonding experience on the weekend is exactly what you need. I know with my friends, once we arrive, we cannot wait to see what each of us gets. We always catch up about our busy week. Topics of conversation vary but Miss Shirley's Café is the focal point of our weekend bonding. We joke around and talk about classes or exchange our thoughts on the most recent sports news that we have heard about. But we have one unwritten rule when we are all at Miss Shirley's Café. There is no time for talking when the food arrives—the motion is just eat, breath, repeat. Once we have swallowed our last bite, the discussion takes up right where it left off but not until every crumb is gone.
